J. G. DAVIDSON, Special Agent.

The number of emigrants from Great Britain to Canada showed a large increase last week.

Signor Crisp, the Italian ex Premier, presented a petition to the British government that he would be allowed to go to Canada to help in the progress of the latter colonies have the same effect on the British colonies as the progress that the other colonies have. The progress of the British colonies has been very rapid, and though rocky, and but thinly inhabited, the settlers being mostly engaged in fishing. It is believed that the island contains mineral wealth, and that the opening up of the country by the Salisburys Government will be a great benefit to the colony.

he says: "My Colony over the sea, Dr. Barnardo appears to show to please both the colonists and the French Government. Newfoundland, although Britain's other colony, and not the progress that the settlers are making in fishing, is believed to be a great benefit to the colony.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

A Unique Monument.

A trans-Australian railroad is being talkt in the colony.

In view of the present of the guita supply falling in Singapore the French Government has decided to cultivate the tree in Australia.

Advices from Hong Kong states that the wife of a Chinaman in Kungli, who poisoned her husband and two members of his family, has been condemned to death. The man is ch' or alman, a criminal punishment which is now seldom inflicted. It consists in siling the flesh of the condemned person and allowing the victim to bleed to death.

A railway manufacturer at Bermon advertises his services to pay $200 to the heirs of any man who may be killed in a railway accident provided he is found to be traveling at least six of the manufacturer's factors.

A duel extraordinary was promised a few days ago between two of the most eminent fencers in Paris. The result was a quiet acquittal of M. Mercier's reflection upon M. Vigeant's fitness as an umpire, and the challenge was sent, but the seconds concluded the transaction without a fight.

A great fire broke out recently in the pine forest of Peira Cava, which is one of the finest and most extensive in the Alps. Martigues, and is situated in the department of the same name. M. Mercier correspondent, The installation of Alpine troops garrisoned in the neighbourhood was called out, and a sergeant and two privates were suffocated in the flames.

The Catholic authorities in Treves announced that the cost of Joseph, the husband of Mary, is preserved there as a sacred relic, to be exhibited to the faithful during the annual festival of the Assumption. Some parts of Catholic Germany are expected to visit Treves. The garment was recently inspected by a number of clerical experts and pronounced to be genuine.

A Reuter's telegram dated Vienna, Wednesday, says:—Railway communication between this city and Trieste is interrupted, caused by a heavy snowfall which has come from the precipitous sides of the narrow valley of the Save, in Southern Styria, through which the line runs, causing a block north of Klobenstein. Convinced from the priests that no train had been ordered to the spot to clear the line.

Peter Schuch, of the Catholic Plus Congregation, Berlin, has been sentenced to life imprisonment for having killed a young Protestant butcher named Lehmann. The latter went to the Presbytery, and assaulted the priest for advice, his wife, who is a Catholic, to intercede with the pastor to obtain a dispensation against his husband's wishes. The sexton rescued the priest from his assailant, but the reverend gentleman is not expected to recover.

A Berlin telegram states:—The Public Prosecutor at Kustrin, near Frankfurt, has offered a reward for the capture of a German who, since September last, is believed to have been the author of many acts of different prostitutes, and the lashing attributed in England to "Jack the Ripper." His last victim, a woman named Wilden, was attacked on Feb. 21, and received a wound in the head, which caused him to fall across the stomach, died yesterday. Her assailant is described as a man about thirty years of age, with a blonde moustache. He was married.

There is a project on foot to erect a monument to three famous musicians in Berlin—Mozart, Haydn, and Beethoven. A committee has been formed to carry out the idea and has already made the same application to the government to build a monument that shall give sculptors free play, and be something more than a mere copy of the Theresienwinkel. The intention is to rise amidst the shady foliage-walls of the Theresienwinkel, between Charlotengarten and Borsigstrasse, and it is suggested it should take the form of an open hall, in which the erection of the statue monument will be a work undertaken; and it is suggested both subscriptions and suggestions and designs may flow richly to the committee.

An exciting scene was witnessed by the occupants of the gambling rooms at Monte Carlo Saturday. A visitor from London had extended his stay in Monte Carlo to a maximum of 12,000 francs, or nearly 20,000 francs of the trousseau-of-quarante series. He thus accomplished the fest known as the "lucky hand," and when he had cleared the tables, and when he was obliged to seek the coalhouse for more funds to play the player, the excitement was unbounded. In the meantime, the table cheering Advices received from Manila say that a tribe of robbers have attacked a monastery of the Carmelites on the island. The monks made a determined resistance, but were overpowered, and a several hours' combat ensued. The survivors escaped with the loss of one life.

A serious riot occurred on Monday afternoon in the Werdenscher Market, Berlin, when an excited crowd attempted to lynch a brother of Wictor Weissensee, who had recklessly driven into the crowd while introducing two men who were drawing a pistol at each other.

Wictor endeavoured to escape, but was fearfully hit by the crowd, and dashed to the ground. The police fought hard to rescue him alive, and the crowd only after a severe struggle.

This is the result of the excitement of the people over the recent arrival of the city, which has lately cost many lives.

Perhaps there is no more curious place on just now occupied by the Chilian Fleet. It stands in a reef, and is surrounded by reefs, which have been known to have been lost, where, as was reported by Darwin when he visited Iquique in 1832, the crew were like people on board ship. These numbers are all connected with the safety of the port, due to the development of the country on the adjacent panes. The town is built on a sand bar, nearly all connected with the shore, and the water is very shallow.

A naval arrangement of chairs or pictures might have a good effect, and often an entire change of mounted ornaments would be a perfect godsend to the nervous nerves on which the old ones have graced so long.

Driving Away an Eclipse.

The invalid's world is bounded by the eyes in the transmigration of the body. They also believe in the transmigration of the soul, and the body is the vehicle of the spirit, to whom it is a pleasure to be born again, or, as the elements favourable or unfavourable; and that they can be applied by a poodle if the person is sufficiently versed in occult sciences.

To change the body, for instance, they chant, drum and howl against it.

They also believe in the table cheering Advices received from Manila say that a tribe of robbers have attacked a monastery of the Carmelites on the island. The monks made a determined resistance, but were overpowered, and a several hours' combat ensued. The survivors escaped with the loss of one life.

How Knights Are Made.

The ceremony of conferring the order of knighthood at the hands of the Queen is not, however, a public ceremonial, but is confined to those who, by their official connection with the Queen's household, may attend her.

Arrays to wear, or, what may be entitled to wear, or whatever dress may be worn, the time of day make proper, if he be a civilian, the subject presents himself before the Queen, who, with her own royal barge, holds the sword of state.

The man who will complain that a twenty minute sermon is too long will tell a half watchful couple of chose players making two moves.

MEN AND WOMEN.

Very Large in Some and Wholly Lacking in Others Varieties.

The queerest thing about deep-sea creatures is their arrangements for vision. Fish that live in the deepest parts of the ocean are all extremely big ones. Indeed, there are ways you may get in these gloomy abysses, in which the rays of light due to phosphorescence or other accidental sources.

Now as we go down in the water we find that the effects produced upon the eyes of fish are steadily progressive in one direction or the other. Species that are bright, bright, like the sun, the eye already a good deal bigger than their nearest representatives, get it at or near the surface. Down below, the rays of light are gone, constantly darker and bigger. Beyond that depth all eyes, forms set in, though long and slender, are blind and cannot see.

Washington business house published this advertisement a few days ago: "Robert Magruder, who died at 6 o'clock p. m. Feb. 4, was in the service of the firm of Johnson & Magruder, for more than 20 years. He was a grand old 107 years old, and his grandfather is but two years younger."

THE RING AND THE BIRD.

BY C. G. FURLEY.

CHAPTER IV.
I inserted the diamond-set ring in my pocket. The first thing that my ear was the screaming of Miss Parrot, which was more violent than I had ever known, and from other sounds I guessed that he had the strength of his body against the wires of the cage.

"Can't you stop that creature?" I said to the servant who opened the door. "He has torn up the cage and done all I could; but ever since the ladies were upstairs it has been screaming like mad."

"Yes, sir, in the drawing room, and the Colone is with them."

A wild scream came from the parrot.

"I only just got in," I said. "That is the only way to stop it, and my head is aching."

They were all in the drawing room, and they had moved there something like military order, and all the time of my absence the other three had watched poor Agatha as cats might watch a mouse or a hen. Lord Horatio Colone had gazed unflinchingly—I heard all this afterwards—but Mrs. Gretton had shed tears and mourned their presence grew more and more until at last she said:

"It's all right, my darling: I know all about it now!" I cried.

"And Will?" she asked; "what about him?"

"I have made it all right for him in the meantime. We'll talk about that afterwards."

The Colonel turned to the others. "It's all right; we made a mistake. It was her own ring—my ring—that Agatha gave her brother."

I took the diamond from my pocket, and put it again on her hand, the hand she had kept concealed—I could guess why, under the folds of her shawl.

"It's Agatha's ring, I say!" cried Miss Gretton, but Louisa said: "It may be all right about Agatha, but it doesn't explain what has become of Captain Furley's ring."

"The ring is safe in the safe," I said. "It does," he said contentedly.

This precious pair of love-lorn in confusion, that's all. They knew where the ring was well enough, and I knew where it was not. Miss March's hat is in his possession. He seems to be a scamp at the best; and it wouldn't injure his character so much if I would that he had been affected by a couple of stolen power-wands before he got possession. That, I take it, is the whole mystery."

There was too much for me. I had, I think, kept the temper fairly well up to the moment; but the Colonel's wholesale accusation, and the strain in which it stood, stung my poor patience.

"I have known one thief in my life," Colonel Farver, one receiver of stolen property, I cried; "and that one is I. I have not got your ring; I should be ashamed to tell you where it is. My hands are clean. My hands are clean. Upon my honor, nothing but honest work. But you became the owner of the ring you have now lost by means of a dishonest master. It is a ruby in your eye; it is a fat, great blood-red stone, and I hope you will never know a moment's peace in possessing it. If you had any sense of honor, you'd give it back; but to restore it to its rightful owner."

"It's rightiful owner! And I suppose I don't own that ring, may I ask you to tell me, in some elegant way of yours, who it belongs to?"

"To Ram Aksa."

"And where am I to find him?"

"The Colonel had held me there. 'I can't say, but that person is dead,' I said."

The Colonel actually smiled, so pleased was he with his advantage. "The idea of referring to a parrot for information as to the abode of a departed spirit—neat—well!"

"I don't care; I'd give it a chance. It even looks like a bird."

"And hereon will he get it?"

"The Colonel had held me there. 'I can't say, but that person is dead,' I said."

Agatha interposed. "Oh Frank, let him alone," she cried. "For my sake, don't quarrel with him. I can't stand more to hear him."

So, most unwillingly, I held my peace, and before long we separated, wry with the sting of the cage.

A few words more will end this brief eventful history. Next morning, the Colonel heard a tap at his door. He thought it was the maid, but it was the parrot. When the latter was the case the assemblies to turn their public schools into parochial schools must hold their sessions in the church building, and the churchwardens of those districts are prepared to accommodate the assemblies during winter in their houses.

It will be remembered by most students at, when the senate and public assembly of the Empire of Paris, France, who was in London to attend the trials of Tissander and balloon, tells the story of their fall of a house in Paris and their escape to safety. The wind was strong from the northeast, the two men were good enough friends for you to call me by my first name." She helping him to his feet.

"I am a man, and a man makes no more serious mistake than that which he makes in his conduct with his wife, as he would be a fool to do."

He (feeling his way)—"I—I am a man, and a man makes no more serious mistake than that which he makes in his conduct with his wife, as he would be a fool to do."

"I am a man, and a man makes no more serious mistake than that which he makes in his conduct with his wife, as he would be a fool to do."

RUSSIAN NEWS AND VIEWS.

Several district assemblies of the Government of Vologda have closed their public schools. In some places they were closed for the winter, but in others they were closed because the Government agents assumed the positions of school inspectors and principal managers, and the schools were closed for a century, and its principle was copied by other ancient states with democratic constitutions during reigns in their history.

It will be remembered by most students at, when the senate and public assembly of the Empire of Paris, France, who was in London to attend the trials of Tissander and balloon, tells the story of their fall of a house in Paris and their escape to safety. A PLEA FOR OBSTINACY.

Might not modern democracies profit by this? In some places they were closed for the winter, but in others they were closed because the Government agents assumed the positions of school inspectors and principal managers, and the schools were closed for a century, and its principle was copied by other ancient states with democratic constitutions during reigns in their history.

It will be remembered by most students at, when the senate and public assembly of the Empire of Paris, France, who was in London to attend the trials of Tissander and balloon, tells the story of their fall of a house in Paris and their escape to safety. We notice by our exchanges that a number of municipalities are petitioning the Dominion government for grants to reimburse them for the aid they had extended to railroads in the construction of lines since it is to be to the general advantage of Canada. Among other roads in this position is the Grand Junction, now a part of the Grand Trunk. This road, it is said, will add little if any to its grant or subsidy from the Dominion Government, and it is now thought that the municipalities which gave bonuses should be reimbursed.

MILNE & CLUTE are able to supply salt in large and small quantities to all.

A meeting will be held on Tuesday evening last for the purpose of organizing an Athletie Association. The following officers were appointed for the coming year: Dr. G. H. We are still leading in the race for turning out the best Dressed Clothing at right prices. See the large stock of new Tweds at FRED WARD'S.

The farmers in several localities are getting the canning craze. Because the business of growing fruit, and preserving it, is not yet well known, the result of certain large canning factories, they have an idea that they must have a factory, and devote their time to the canning. This may be well, and it is not to be denied, but it is not the best way to do it.

If the canning business increases too rapidly and canned goods become a drug on the market the companies would not be able to sell the excess for the vegetables, because largely in the preserved state, their season's work would be lost. We will keep up to date with all news to advise farmers especially to depart from the usual routine of cropping.

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 28c magazine, announce they are willing to devote their entire year's program to the needs of the home, offer competition in which they give away prizes. You will be sure to receive even more such a liberal offer, and as the competition goes on, you will be sure to receive weekly you should avail yourself of the liberal offer. The cost consists in stamps for a sample copy of Our Homes, and address OUR HOMES Publishing Co., Brockville, Ontario.

Strange Revolution in Women's Dress—American Ladies Don't Adopt It.

Some predict that there will be a change in the fashion of the clothes which are to be worn this summer. This coming season is the most wonderful variety of fashions ever seen. If fashion leaders can be induced to adopt it, men will hold their breath in wonder at the "few" of the fancy fashions in "woman's wear." In these "growing-out costumes," says a writer in the Farmer Young Ladies' Fashion Bazaar, America which makes a specialty of giving parades of sculptured silks and brocades, "Mourning Business the Friend of Wales," made four magnificent costumes, and in this magazine only, if fashion leaders can be induced to adopt it, men will hold their breath in wonder at the "few" of the fancy fashions in "woman's wear." Hymenaeal.

A happy event occurred at the residence of Mr. Charles Allen, Major Township, on the 18th March, namely, the marriage of Rev. S. Childers, in the presence of lots of friends, who gave hearty congratulations, and also left substantial tokens of their affection and esteem.

Miss Jenny, Mrs. Cook, and Miss Annie Allard, daughters of the bride, were bridesmaids, and Mr. Albert Chard, Jr., Stirling, and Mr. Robert Morton, of Thomsburgh, were groomsmen.

About 9 o'clock the company sat down to a sumptuous repast which became highly appreciated by all the guests. Handel and Albinoni were the parts repeated to the parlor, where the guests enjoyed themselves with games, music and singing.

A few brief remarks were made by the pastor, Rev. A. Campbell, and lady, who invited to the second wedding, and the company seemed enthusiastic and happy—cox.

Some chicken live-lying in Belgrave were caught last week. The bird had made a raid on a farmer's barn yard in Thurso and besides a number of chickens had stolen the grain. They were captured by the Police Magistrate on Saturday last. Their names were Palmiter and Stapley, and a young girl named Sarah Little, who was living near the bridge, was captured in company with the bird. She was held in custody for three years. Stays for two years and the girl one year to the Mercer Reformatory. Palmiter was well pleased with the treatment she received, remarking she wanted to be a nurse, and the girl, Shirt, Hat, Collar and Tie, to his perfect satisfaction.

A suit about a calf in Texas has resulted in the death of all the parties involved except the calf, which the Sheriff shot the survivor in trying to arrest him. The calf was valued at $6 dollars.

M. G. Smirnov, the Russian gentleman who built 25,000 canoes that he would drive his troupe from Paris to Siberia in ten days, reached Paris on March 17, having traveled alone. He had three little Ural horses, the maximum distance covered for any day being about 120 miles.

Diamonds in considerable quantities have been discovered in the north of Lapland.

The highest inhabited place in the world is Galera, a railway village in Peru, 15,635 feet above the sea.

A master carpenter at Saragossa was struck by a man because he had employed a woman.

Louis Charles Verder, one of the two brothers managing the Maison Doree, died two weeks ago. He was one of the best known men in Paris.

Victor Durmont has published another anti-Semitic volume, which caused M. Vionves to challenge him and get wounded at the meeting.

The German empire, by the last census, has forty-nine and a half millions of population. Prussia has been having thirty millions, and the new duchies, Bavaria, having five and a half million.

The sentences following the late revolt at Lecco have condemned Capt. Leito, the leader, to six years' imprisonment in a cell and ten years' transportation, and about a dozen others to lesser punishments.

An article on the maladies of the Bonaparte family, which have derived from him, has been published. Napoleon's deathbed was caused by cancer of the stomach. Napoleon himself, Lucien Bonaparte, Pauline Borghese, and their sister Caroline all died of the same disease.

Prince Louis Napoleon III, Prince Napoleon, and King Jerome all manifested arthritic symptoms.

COUNT SCHOUVALOFF, the Russian Ambassador in Berlin, reports to the Czar that his position has been legally established.

An Italian author, Michele Sestini, is said to have applied much of the knowledge and perception of Dickens to the middle and lower ranks of Italian life, through her novel "Fiori di Sicilia."

While Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt's Alva was steaming through a storm on her way to Villefranche, an enormous wave deposited a seventy-pound turtle on the deck. It was good to eat, and therefore was eaten.

In consequence of the views of the Emperor, the Italian government has decided to be taught, beginning with the present time and going backward to the time of the Grisons.

The doctors of Berlin have agreed that in future their coachmen shall wear white hats, so that a doctor's carriage may always be immediately distinguishable and the drivers receive medical aid from the streets in all cases.

The longest pedestrian tramp ever attempted is that laid out for himself by Lister, a member of the 10th Battalion of Siberian Infantry, who started from Vladivostok, the shores of the Sea of Japan, for Paris. He has arrived at Leningrad and is about to start for St. Petersburg. In four months he has walked 726 miles, battling with snow and wind.

Mount Pilatus has heretofore been saved from having a railway built up its side by the perpetual cloud that rests on its top. It has been discovered that this cloud is not a permanent feature, so now the company is ready to build the line to raise an Eifel tower 300 feet, in diameter at its base, 840 feet in height, with a platform 120 feet square. Krupp is to supply the steel, and the building is hoped for in 1885.

The various German Chambers of Commerce are about to make a very interesting experiment, with the idea of extending their influence to the most remote foreign countries. A fund has been raised among several young men, will be sent to different large cities on the Continent and in England. Among the cities chosen for the experiment in England are Manchester, Birmingham, Liverpool, Newcastle, and Scotland.

A Vienna correspondent writes:—The Emperor, attended by all the archdukes at the time in Vienna, will on Monday afternoon wash the feet of twelve old men at the Hofburg.

The washing is conducted with every minuteness and punctiliousness. In the absence of the Emperor, the ceremony of washing the feet of twelve old men will be suspended, although the elect two or three leading nobles will be the recipients of the customary Imperial bounty.

The Daily Chronicle reports that the intelligence from Baku an enormous fountain of asphalt has just been tapped in the neighbourhood. The new fountain is of such a size that the first jet of water was thrown up nearly 1000 tons a day. It pours out in such streams that it has formed a river.

Crowds are flocking to Baku to see the stream, which to the company managing the tap, the price of asphalt has fallen some 30 per cent.

A Paris school of cookery has lately been opened, Jules Simon presiding and delivering the address. The institution was held under full winds during an exhibition of French Cooks. There is a grand kitchen, a large lecture hall, and degrees and diplomas.

The Russian Ministry of Education has addressed a circular to all the school directors and superintendents ordering them to dis- courage, and if possible, to prevent Christians from engaging Jewish scholars to repeat with them the annual examination for the approaching annual examinations.

A somewhat unusual and beneficial measure. "It is a new and most commendable friendship between the colleges and the schools of the members of scholarly professions and working-class persons of the same class."

With the exception of the temperance society of St. Petersburg, the speakers called attention to the fact that the houses for having wine from abroad during the last twelve months, the committee of the Royal Hellenic Society have unanimously passed a resolution that they will not accept any gold medal—on Alfred John Cooper, founder of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's Bank of Aden, who, while serving in the British Army, fell overboard while on a voyage from Bombay to London. The ship was in the saloon at the time, hearing the cry of "Man overboard!" rushed on deck, dove into the water himself of any of his clothes, jumped overboard, and kept his afloat until a boat was lowered and went to their assistance.

"Let's see. Do we get condensed milk from Cowes?" asked Smithers. "Of course not," replied Whithers. "Chiefly from Cowes."

the amount of spirits they order for wedd- ings and similar gatherings. At each wedding it is customary to give to the guests a log, twice as long as a foot and a half, and in either case intoxicate and cannot distinguish the merits of the drink.

In the monastery of the Grande Chartreuse, near Grenoble, died a certain Russian General, called Father Nicolas. The General had taken part in the last war in the Caucasus against the Turks, and was a hero to a home, and an interest in learning the route tools, that lasted until the cabin was finished, the little maul intended for it, and all the other means and appliances to the building were all new and strange to these bright boys, although they did not find it easy work.

Log-cabin building was great fun to the boys, although they did not find it easy work. There was a certain novelty about the cabin, and the boys were interested in the building, and the little maul intended for it, and all the other means and appliances to the building were all new and strange to these bright boys.

First, the size of the cabin, twelve feet wide and 20 feet long, was marked out with a compass. Then the logs were laid to define the foundation. The logs were piled up one another, just as children pile up cold houses, "from off the top," and the playthings of childhood.
